WILD ASSAM, BEYOND KAZIRANGA

Assam's wilderness is not always found in wide grasslands and open safari landscapes. In Hoollongapar Gibbon Wildlife Sanctuary, the experience moves into the forest canopy—a compact, semi-evergreen wilderness near Jorhat where the elusive Hoolock Gibbon, India's only ape, is the defining presence.

The forest is best experienced slowly. Listen for movement overhead, follow the calls through the trees and watch the canopy come alive. Alongside Hoolock Gibbons, the sanctuary supports a remarkable diversity of primates, including capped langur, stump-tailed macaque, pig-tailed macaque, Assamese macaque and slow loris, as well as a rich variety of birdlife.

Beyond Hoollongapar, Assam unfolds through distinctly different wilderness landscapes. Pobitora offers an intimate floodplain experience; Orang brings open grasslands and wetlands along the Brahmaputra; Dibru-Saikhowa leads into a world of river islands, wetlands and forest; while Dehing Patkai reveals Assam's rainforest character and extraordinary biodiversity. Together, they offer a quieter, more varied perspective on the state's wild side.

WHERE THE RIVER MEETS THE WILD

The Brahmaputra reveals a different side of Assam—one shaped by shifting channels, sandbars, wetlands and river islands. As the cruise moves through this vast riverine landscape, the journey becomes an opportunity to observe Assam at its most elemental: birds in flight, distant wildlife habitats, fishing boats, changing sandbanks and the quiet rhythm of life along the river.

The river journey also creates a natural connection between Assam's diverse wildlife landscapes—from the floodplains around Kaziranga and the riverine habitats of the Brahmaputra to the wetlands and islands beyond. It is a journey where wildlife is not confined to a sanctuary; it becomes part of the landscape through which the river flows.

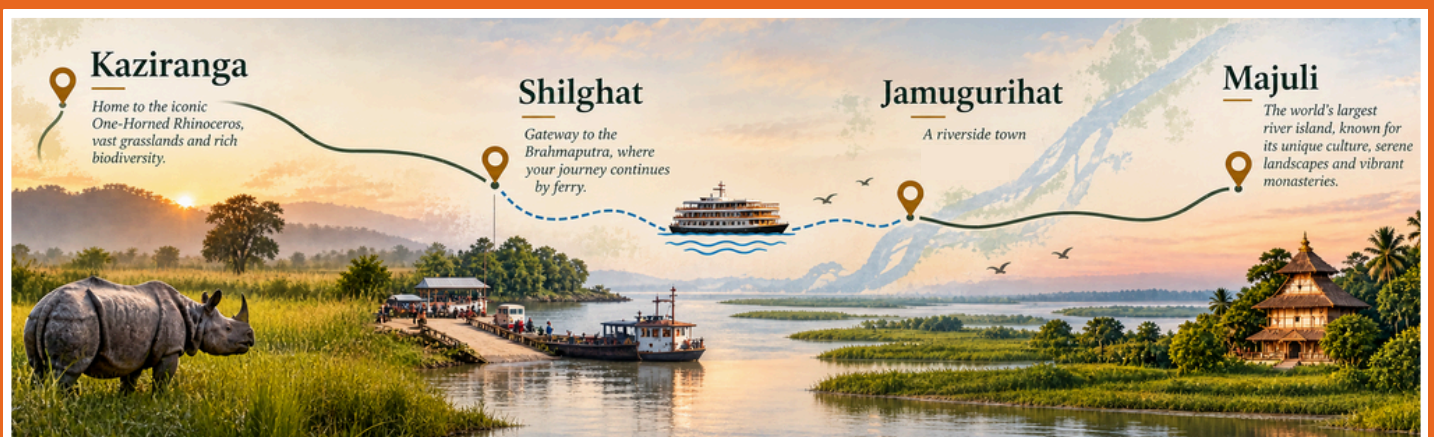

JOURNEY ALONG THE WATER

From Kaziranga to Shilghat, the journey leaves the grasslands behind and enters the vastness of the Brahmaputra. The river carries the voyage upstream through shifting sandbars, islands, channels and wetlands, with birdlife and changing river landscapes unfolding along the way. Beyond Jamugurihat, the journey continues towards Majuli, following the river as it transforms from a wilderness landscape into one of Assam's most distinctive river islands.

A NIGHT ON THE BRAHMAPUTRA

As daylight fades, the vessel anchors near a suitable river location, subject to river and operational conditions. A sandbank becomes the setting for an evening of bonfire, Assamese dinner, music, storytelling and stargazing—a rare opportunity to experience the river after dark, beneath an open sky.

“ Follow the river, and Assam's wild side begins to reveal itself. ”

“FROM THE PRESTIGE OF TRAVEL MARTS TO THE SOUL OF FESTIVITY”

Our recent participation in BLTM and KTM marks a highly impactful milestone in Eastern Globe's journey, providing an invaluable platform to showcase the profound depth of the Northeast to national and international trade partners. Engaging directly with corporate buyers and luxury travel planners reaffirmed a growing global appetite for the curated, tailor-made, and community-centric experiences we pioneer. By bridging our deep regional roots with global industry standards, these travel marts allowed us to forge strategic alliances and secure vital partnerships that will directly shape our upcoming portfolios. The insights gained from these forums ensure Eastern Globe remains at the forefront of sophisticated, purpose-driven travel, ready to elevate how the world experiences regions like Assam & Northeast.

Amidst this busy calendar of travel marts, we paused to ground our professional strides in gratitude with a vibrant Vishwakarma Puja celebration at our office. Gathering as a team to seek blessings for our crafts, tools, and upcoming journeys perfectly reflects the cultural soul that drives Eastern Globe. This sacred interlude brought our team together in shared camaraderie, beautifully harmonizing our expanding corporate horizons with the timeless heritage we proudly represent.
